

PUBLISHING CHARTER

The author(s) submitting an article for publication on cesttoutdroit.com acknowledge that they have read and accept these terms and conditions of publication in full.

The www.cesttoutdroit.com website ('C'est Tout Droit') is a collaborative site where all scientific contributions are made voluntarily by the authors of the articles.

Authors may submit articles to C'est Tout Droit on a voluntary basis at the following address: contact@cesttoutdroit.com

If the article is accepted, it will be formatted before publication and C'est Tout Droit reserves the right to make slight changes to the article, particularly in the event of spelling or syntax errors or in order to respect the pagination of the site, as well as the use of references and quotations.

The publication date of the article depends on the number of pending articles.

C'est Tout Droit publishes the article(s) without remuneration or consideration.

The authors therefore acknowledge and accept that they will not receive any remuneration from C'est Tout Droit, in any form whatsoever, for the use of the article, in any country and for any length of time.

The authors of the articles acknowledge and accept that their publication on C'est Tout Droit entails their posting on the Internet portal www.cesttoutdroit.com, so that any visitor will be able to consult them free of charge.

The authors only grant C'est Tout Droit the right to publish and distribute the article. Consequently, the authors retain their copyright. The article submitted must be original and solely and necessarily written by the authors designated at the time of submission.

In general, the submission of an article for publication must not contravene any clauses binding the authors to a publisher or media outlet.

Information relating to the identity of the author(s) (surname(s), first name(s), position(s)) will be communicated under the sole responsibility of the submitter of the article, it being specified that the submitter must be the author of the article he/she is submitting and must mention any co-author(s).

The submitter certifies that the article he/she is submitting was written by him/herself, and certifies that he/she has obtained express authorisation for publication on C'est Tout Droit from any third parties who may hold intellectual property rights to all or part of the article.

Along with your article, please return this charter duly completed to the following address: contact@cesttoutdroit.com

The tenderer, author of the article, guarantees C'est Tout Droit against any action for infringement and/or plagiarism and bears full responsibility for any damage that such actions may cause to C'est Tout Droit and its administrators.

In particular, and without this list being limitative, the tenderer guarantees C'est Tout Droit and its administrators against any co-author who has not given their agreement to publication, any third party author from whom the content of the article has been borrowed, in whole or in part, without their consent.

The opinions expressed in the articles or reproduced in the analyses as well as the information and the contents of the articles engage only their authors, so that C'est Tout Droit declines any responsibility on the information, the contents or the opinions expressed within the article.
